Weekly Newscasts Lesson Plan

November 9, 2015

Newscasts are current news stories read at a slower pace than you might hear on the radio. These are prepared by CBC news editor Brian Labby.

Objectives:

- To develop listening skills
- To increase vocabulary
- To increase awareness of grammatical structures and functional language
- To increase knowledge of current events
- To provide a user-friendly, self-study tool for learners, as well as ESL classroom resource for instructors

Contents:

Three news stories are featured in each weekly lesson plan. Each lesson contains vocabulary and listening comprehension activities. At the end of each lesson, you will find a complete transcript and an answer key. This lesson plan is aimed towards learners at an intermediate language level (i.e. Canadian Language Benchmarks 4-5 or equivalent).

Learning English with CBC is a joint project with CBC Calgary, CBC Edmonton, and the Government of Alberta. Lesson Plan prepared by Kathleen Hall and Deidre Lake, Communication4Integration Inc.

DISCUSSION QUESTIONS

What do you know about your city, provincial and federal government? Do you know who the mayor is? Do you know who your MLA and MP are?

LANGUAGE FOCUS: INTRODUCTION TO THE GRAMMAR OF PHRASAL VERBS

Phrasal verbs and other multi-word verbs are an important part of the English language. We heard phrasal verbs in the newscasts this week.

A phrasal verb is a verb followed by a prepositional particle (or an adverb, or both); and has a different meaning from the original verb alone.

The reason we call the preposition a particle is because it does not have the usual meaning of the preposition. For example, if I said “Look up at the moon”, you would look up  toward the sky. If I were to say “Look up the word in the dictionary”, you would not look up.

Phrasal verbs have some grammatical rules outlined in the box below:

Transitive and intransitive phrasal verbs:
Some phrasal verbs are transitive. (A transitive verb always has an object.) Example: He came down with a cold (a cold is the object of the phrasal verb.)
Some phrasal verbs are intransitive. (An intransitive verb does not have an object.) Example: The truth comes out.
Separable or inseparable phrasal verbs:
Some transitive phrasal verbs are separable. (The object is between the verb and the preposition.) Most separable phrasal verbs can take an object in both places. Example : The cold season drove food prices up The cold season drove up food prices . Food prices is the object. It can go between the verb and the prepositional particle, or after the prepositional particle.
With very few phrasal verbs, such as “tell apart”, the object must go between the verb and prepositional particle.
NOTE: With a separable phrasal verb, a pronoun (such as he, she, they, or it) cannot come after the prepositional particle. It must be between the verb and prepositional particle. Example : The cold weather drove them up. NOT: The cold weather drove up them .
Some transitive phrasal verbs are inseparable. (The object can only be placed after the preposition.) Example: He swore off fast food . (Fast food is the object; it cannot be placed between the verb and prepositional particle.)

Language Focus: Activity 1

Now that we know that some phrasal verbs are followed by an object, and some are not, and that some phrasal verbs are separable and some are not, look at the table below to see which are followed by an object, and which are separable.

Phrasal Verb	Meaning	Object	Separable
come out	to appear, to be seen	no	no
come around	to change one's mind, to change one's opinion, agree	no	no
come down on	to scold or punish	yes	no
come up with	to produce or supply	yes	no
come to (someone)	remember or recall	yes	no
come about	to happen	no	no
come across	to find	yes	no
come down with	to become sick	yes	no
drive away	to force an animal or someone to leave a place	yes	yes
drive back	to repulse or force back	yes	yes
drive by	to do something in or from a car	no	no
drive off	to drive away from a place	no	no
drive out	to force someone to leave a place	no	yes
drive up	to make something increase	no	yes
swear in	to make someone give a formal promise in a law court or at an official ceremony	no	yes
swear at	to use rude or offensive language directed at someone, or something	yes	no swear off	to promise that you will not do or use something again	yes	no swear to	to make a serious promise to do something	no	yes
swear to	to say that something is definitely true	yes	no
swear on	to make a public or official promise, especially in court	yes	no
swear by	to be certain that something is good or useful	yes	no

Language Focus: Activity 2

Look at the meaning of the phrasal verbs in the table above, and complete the following sentence with phrasal verbs from the table. Do not forget to change the tense of the verb if necessary.

1. My uncle doesn't want to move to Canada, but I think he will _____
_____.
2. I couldn't remember where I parked my car, but it suddenly _____ me that I had taken the bus.
